

Cultural Role Play Role Cards

PollyWhoops

1. You prefer to talk to people from your own culture instead of people from other cultures
 2. You only speak when spoken to. You do not like to start conversations with outsiders.
 3. You don't like it when strangers get very close to you. If a stranger tries to get close to you, you move away. If they keep getting close, you may shout "Ho!"
 4. If a stranger touches you, you will shout, "Ho" and turn your back to the person.
 5. You like to have very short conversations. You do not like to talk for a long time. If someone tries to talk to you for a long time, you will walk away.
 6. If you hear a member of your tribe say, "Ho" you will run over to help them. Push or pull anyone who is trying to touch another Pollywhoop or get too close.
-

Chitchits

1. You are very curious about strangers. You want to talk to them and learn about them.
2. In your culture, touching someone on the shoulder or shaking hands is a sign of friendship. You do it a lot.
3. You like to talk to strangers and stand close to them so they understand you.
4. In your culture, you value small talk and being able to talk to people for a long time. You can talk about the weather, your clothes, food, a TV show you saw last night, anything, for a long time without stopping. You think being quiet is a sign of rudeness.
5. You don't like when people turn their back on you. You respond by tapping them on the shoulder until they turn around.
6. You do not like to be grabbed or pushed or pulled. If anyone tries to push you away, you will get upset and shout, "Woot!"
7. If you hear another Chitchit say, "Woot!" you will run to surround them and protect them.