
SHARON HARTLE

From Teaching Practice to Reflection and Back Again

Copyright 2018 by Sharon Hartle

ISBN: 978-1-948492-08-9
Library of Congress Control Number: 2018933521
All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced, introduced into or stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form, or by any means (electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise) without the prior written permission of the copyright holder.

Country of Manufacture Specified on the Last Page

First Printing 2018

Published by:
Alphabet Publishing
1204 Main Street #172
Branford, Connecticut 06405 USA

info@alphabetpublishingbooks.com
www.alphabetpublishingbooks.com

Designed by Annabel Brandon

All images by Sharon Hartle.
Screenshot of Symbaloo shared with permission.

Table of Contents

Abbreviations 5

Introduction: 7

My belief in reflection for growth 7

The aim of this book 8

My first blog post: Where it all began 9

Section One: Learning 13

Looking at learners 13

Problem One: Who are my learners and what English do they need to learn? 14

Welcome to Italy: A world of contradictions 14

Learner-centred work 24

Problem Two: How can learners be motivated to want to learn, not just pass exams? 25

Learner Autonomy: The price of freedom 29

Problem Three: My learners are not autonomous. They depend too much on the teacher 30

How autonomous do learners actually want to be? 30

Section Two: Teaching 37

Teaching with technology 37

Problem Four: I would like to use technology in my teaching. How can I integrate it into my normal teaching without wasting too much class time? 38

Thoughts on blended teaching and learning 38
Excerpt from the blended learning page on the class blog 46

What about your colleagues? 50

Problem Five: How can I communicate with colleagues who are very different from me? 51

Tradition of globalisation? Alice or the Cheshire cat? 51

The role of the teacher in the future 57

Problem Six: If so much is available online, will there be a job for teachers in the future? 58

Blended learning as a social process: Sugata Mitra at IATEFL and the aftermath 58

Section Three: Testing 65

Problem Seven: Why do some learners keep failing exams? 66

On mushrooms and saunas 66

What exactly are we testing? 70

Problem Eight: If we take English as a Lingua Franca into consideration, how does it affect my teaching and testing? 71

Post One: Monday morning thoughts: which model? 71
Post two: The world of ELF 73

Errors or mistakes? 76

Problem Nine: How do I know whether my marking in exams is reliable? 77

Can't see the language for the Errors 77

Section Four: Professional Development 85

ELTchat: Professional development organised by educators for educators 87

Problem Ten: How can I find out about what other educators are interested in? 88

Perpetual PD or keep on learning 88

Face-to-face professional development 92

Problem Eleven: How can I be sure a conference is right for me 93

TESOL Rome 2014: A moment of sharing and meeting 93

Narrowing your focus 100

Problem Twelve: I don't have the time or the finding to go to conferences or courses so how can I find out more about something I'm interested in 101

The IATEFL TEASIG Webinar branches out to do Facebook discussions 101

Excerpt from the post, Post-Manchester IATEFL Reflections 105

Bibliography 109

Websites 110

Other Teacher Resource Books 111