6. Reader's Theater and podcasts	59
▪ Performing a prose poem, text, or play with a script in hand bridges language work and drama. This section also has example activities for using a play to practice selected grammar structures
7. Staging plays	70

8. Writing plays	87
▪ Workshopping and writing a play supports students in writing skills, fluency practice, exploring theatrical themes, and bringing their own stories to the stage.
9. Working with academic content	92
▪ Taking on the roles of history, science, or other fields through process drama—or perhaps making a documentary or podcast—gives students a kinesthetic and empathetic experience with academic content.
